Intangible Cultural Heritage

非物质文化遗产

（简称“非遗”），与物质文化遗产相对应，是人类文明的重要结晶和共同财富，也是文化多样性中最具活力的组成部分。它承载着历史的智慧与辉煌，体现了世界文化的多样性。

2003年10月17日，联合国教科文组织第32届大会审议通过了《保护非物质文化遗产公约》，成为全球非遗保护事业的重要里程碑。2004年8月28日，第十届全国人民代表大会常务委员会批准中国加入《公约》，中国亦成为第六个缔约国。

在中国，非物质文化遗产是指各族人民世代传承，并视为其文化遗产组成部分的各类传统文化表现形式，以及与之相关的实物与场所。截止至2025年3月13日，中国国家级非物质文化遗产名录涵盖民间文学、传统音乐、传统舞蹈、传统戏剧、曲艺、传统美术等十大门类，共计认定代表性项目3610余项，充分展现了中华文明的博大精深与多元底蕴。

从中国非遗的杯盏之间，得以领略大美中华的壮阔山河与深厚人文。

Intangible Cultural Heritage

(ICH), in contrast to tangible cultural heritage, represents one of the most dynamic components of cultural diversity. It is the crystallization of human civilization and a precious shared legacy, embodying the wisdom of humanity, the splendor of history, and the richness of world cultural diversity. On October 17, 2003, the 32nd General Conference of UNESCO adopted the Convention for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage, marking a milestone in the global endeavor to protect intangible heritage. On August 28, 2004, the Standing Committee of the Tenth National People's Congress approved China's accession to the Convention, making it the sixth country to join. In China, intangible cultural heritage refers to traditional cultural expressions passed down through generations by all ethnic groups, regarded as integral to their cultural legacy, along with the associated objects and sites. As of March 13, 2025, China's National List of Intangible Cultural Heritage encompasses more than 3,610 representative items across ten major categories, including folk literature, traditional music, dance, drama, quyi (folk art forms), and traditional fine arts—fully reflecting the profoundness and diversity of Chinese civilization. From the vessels and rituals of Chinese ICH, one may glimpse the grandeur of the land and the enduring spirit of its people.

SHADOW PUPPETRY

THE 8 INTANGIBLES OF CHINA W36* Chinese Shadow Puppetry

中国皮影戏

中国皮影戏，这一古老而灵动的艺术，以牛皮或纸制的彩绘影偶为载体，在光与影的交织中娓娓道来。幕后艺人以手中木杆赋予影偶生命，人物或歌或舞，或叙说古今，皆在半透明的幕布上流转生辉。皮影艺人不仅能操纵数偶同台，还可真假声并用、即兴演唱，并自如切换于乐器与歌喉之间。更有能工巧匠，以精雕细刻赋予影偶十余乃至二十余个关节，使其姿态千变万化。无论是数人同台的盛大剧团，还是寥寥几人的小戏班，皮影戏常在婚礼、祭祀与节庆之中出现，承载着人们的信仰与欢笑。它流传历史，映照民俗，亦在代代口耳相传中延续生命。2011年，中国皮影戏被列入《人类非物质文化遗产代表作名录》，成为中华文化遗产的第三十六颗瑰宝。

Chinese Shadow Puppetry, an ancient and enchanting art form, brings painted figures of leather or paper to life in the interplay of light and shadow. Behind the translucent screen, master puppeteers animate the silhouettes with slender rods, weaving tales of history and myth through song, dialogue, and graceful movement. Skilled artists improvise in performance, shift seamlessly between falsetto and chest voice, and even command multiple puppets while playing instruments. Many also carve the puppets themselves, crafting intricate joints—twelve, twenty-four, or more—that grant the figures extraordinary vitality. Whether performed by large troupes or intimate ensembles, shadow plays illuminate weddings, rituals, and festive gatherings, carrying the echoes of belief, folklore, and community joy. In 2011, Chinese Shadow Puppetry was inscribed on UNESCO's Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity, becoming the 36th Chinese element honored on the global stage.

TANG SANCAI

Tang Sancai

唐三彩烧制技艺

唐三彩，流光溢彩的古韵陶瓷，自盛唐风华中走来，已有一千三百余年历史。白釉胎骨之上，黄、绿、白等釉彩交融淌流，宛如盛世乐章中的绚丽和声，因大批珍品出土于洛阳，亦有“洛阳三彩”之誉。以白色高岭土为胎，经高温素烧与低温釉烧二次淬炼，釉色在窑火中自然交汇，幻化出独一无二的艺术风采。自清代乾隆年间起，孟津高氏家族以炉火相传，守护此艺。新中国成立后，高松茂将技艺公之于世，使古老陶艺重获新生。今日的唐三彩，不仅有骏马与骆驼，更有人物、动物与器皿，皆焕发盛唐之风华。守护与传承这份瑰宝，仍是我们共同的文化使命。

Tang Sancai, the radiant pottery of the Tang Dynasty, has journeyed through more than 1,300 years of history. On the ivory-white clay body, glazes of amber, green, and cream cascade and merge, evoking the brilliance of a flourishing age. Unearthed in great numbers from Luoyang, these treasures are also celebrated as the "Luoyang Sancai." Crafted from fine kaolin clay, the wares undergo a double firing—first at high temperatures, then at low—where molten glazes flow and blend in the kiln, creating effects as fluid as brushstrokes of living color. Since the Qianlong reign of the Qing Dynasty, the Gao family of Mengjin has safeguarded this craft across generations. After 1949, master Gao Songmao brought Tang Sancai into the public eye, breathing new life into ancient art. Today, beyond the famed horses and camels, figures, animals, and vessels emerge from the flames, each echoing the grandeur of Tang civilization. To protect and pass on this heritage remains an enduring cultural mission.

The Legend of the White Snake

白蛇传

《白蛇传》是中国最著名的民间传说之一。故事塑造了白娘子、许仙、法海和小青等经典人物，表现了人们对自由和美好生活的向往。传说起源于唐五代，南宋时成型，元代已有戏剧和话本，明清以后不断被改编为小说、戏曲、弹词，并在现代发展为电影、电视、动漫等多种艺术形式，广为流传，甚至传播到日本、朝鲜、越南、印度等国家。《白蛇传》不仅是中国四大民间传说之一，还深深融入了杭州西湖的文化景观，与断桥、雷峰塔等名胜紧密相连。它故事动人，人物鲜明，既具有艺术魅力，也蕴含重要的历史与文化价值。

The Legend of the White Snake is one of China's most famous folk tales. Featuring iconic characters such as Lady White, Xu Xian, Fahai, and Xiaoqing, it reflects the people's longing for freedom and a better life. Originating in the Tang and Five Dynasties period and taking shape in the Southern Song, the legend appeared in dramas and stories by the Yuan dynasty. From the Ming and Qing onwards, it has been adapted into novels, operas, ballads, and in modern times into films, TV series, animation, and dance. It spread widely across China and even to countries such as Japan, Korea, Vietnam, and India. As one of the "Four Great Chinese Folktales," the Legend of the White Snake is closely tied to Hangzhou's West Lake, the Broken Bridge, and Leifeng Pagoda. With its compelling story and vivid characters, it holds lasting artistic charm as well as significant historical and cultural value.

MATURE VINEGAR

Shanxi Mature Vinegar

清徐老陈醋酿制技艺

山西老陈醋是中国四大名醋之一，主产于太原清徐。早在春秋战国时期，清徐人便以缸瓮液态发酵酿醋；北魏时改为固态发酵，奠定了独特的酿造传统。它以红高粱为主料，配以麦麸、豆壳等辅料，采用红心大曲发酵，经蒸料、翻醅、熏醅、淋滤、陈酿等复杂工序，世代传承，逐渐形成北方独具风格的酿醋技艺。与西方果醋不同，中国先民以谷物酿醋，营养更为丰富。山西老陈醋色泽乌润，酸味纯正，口感醇厚而回甘，因“隔瓶亦香”而有“透瓶香”的美誉。它既是烹饪佳肴的灵魂调料，也是强身健体的传统良方。

Shanxi Mature Vinegar, one of China's four great vinegars, is mainly produced in Qingxu, south of Taiyuan. As early as the Spring and Autumn period, locals brewed vinegar in jars through liquid fermentation; by the Northern Wei, the method evolved into solid-state fermentation, laying the foundation for its distinctive style. Crafted from red sorghum with bran and husks as auxiliaries, and fermented with hongxin daqu, the vinegar undergoes steaming, fermenting, smoking, leaching, and long aging. This artistry, refined over generations, has created a northern brewing tradition of exceptional character. Unlike Western fruit vinegars, Chinese grain vinegar is richer in amino acids and nutrients. Shanxi Mature Vinegar is dark and lustrous, mellow yet refreshing, with a pure, lingering acidity. Known as the "fragrance that escapes the bottle," it is both the essence of Chinese cuisine and a time-honored elixir for health and vitality.

SUGAR SCULPTURE

THE 8 INTANGIBLES OF CHINA VII-88* Sugar Sculpture

糖塑

糖塑是中国民间独具特色的艺术，利用食糖的可塑性，通过捏、吹、拉、剪等多种技艺结合绘染、刻划等装饰手法，制成既可观赏又能食用的艺术品，广泛流传于南北各地，深受百姓喜爱。成都糖画，俗称“倒糖饼儿”，历史悠久，可追溯至《本草纲目》所记“飴糖”。它以熔糖为笔，借鉴皮影、剪纸的艺术手法，形成以线条和块面为特色的造型风格。题材多为花鸟鱼虫、飞禽走兽、戏曲人物，作品既似画，又能食，被誉为“观之若画，食之有味”。在成都庙会与集市上，糖画不仅承载着人们的祈福愿望，也寄托了审美理想，成为童年记忆中甜美而生动的民间艺术。

Sugar sculpture is a unique form of Chinese folk art. By shaping molten sugar through techniques such as molding, blowing, pulling, and cutting, combined with decoration like painting and engraving, artisans create works that are both edible and visually enchanting. Widely practiced across the country, it is deeply rooted in everyday folk life. Chengdu sugar painting, locally called "upside-down sugar cakes," has a long history dating back to the "xiang tang" described in the Compendium of Materia Medica. Using melted sugar as ink and drawing inspiration from shadow puppetry and paper cutting, it developed a style defined by flowing lines and bold shapes. Its themes include birds, flowers, insects, animals, and opera figures. These works, "as delightful to behold as paintings and as sweet to taste," embody blessings and aesthetic ideals. Beloved especially by children, Chengdu sugar paintings remain a vibrant presence at temple fairs and marketplaces, carrying both sweetness and artistry into communal memory.

Chinese Paper-Cutting

中国剪纸

中国剪纸是一种历史悠久、极具民族特色的民间艺术。它以一方薄纸为载体，借助剪刀或刻刀，将花草虫鱼、飞禽走兽、吉祥纹样与民间故事化为灵动的图案。小小红纸间，既凝结着民间的智慧与情感，也折射出古老民族的生活理想与审美追求。它不仅装点生活，更承载情感与祝福，映照出民族的审美与精神。剪纸融入节俗与日常，记录着代代相传的文化记忆。

2009年，它被列入联合国教科文组织《人类非物质文化遗产代表作名录》，成为中国第11项入选项目。

这一艺术，不仅是纸上的精美花纹，更是民族文化记忆的鲜活见证。

Chinese papercutting is a time-honored folk art, deeply rooted in tradition and rich in cultural symbolism. With nothing more than a sheet of paper and a pair of scissors or a carving knife, artisans transform birds and blossoms, animals and insects, auspicious motifs and folk tales into vivid patterns. Within these delicate forms lies the wisdom, emotion, and aesthetic vision of generations of Chinese people. Far beyond decoration for windows or festive occasions, papercutting is interwoven with everyday life and ritual practices, forming an essential part of Chinese folk culture. It preserves visual symbols and artistic forms passed down through centuries, reflecting society's values, moral beliefs, practical experiences, and collective ideals. As a "folk narrative on paper," it conveys blessings, embodies emotions, and serves roles of cognition, moral instruction, artistic expression, and social interaction. From northern window flowers to southern ceremonial ornaments, from harvest rituals to weddings and birthdays, papercutting has always accompanied the rhythms of life. In 2009, Chinese papercutting was inscribed on UNESCO's Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity, becoming the 11th Chinese element to be recognized. More than a craft of intricate patterns, it stands as a living testament to the cultural memory and artistic spirit of the Chinese people.

TAI CHI

THE 8 INTANGIBLES OF CHINA

W41* Tai Chi

太极拳

太极拳根植于中国传统哲学，承载着阴阳循环、天人合一的思想与养生智慧。它以“中正圆活”为运动特征，讲求意念与呼吸的调和，五步、八法为核心，套路、功法、推手为主要形式。练习者在动与静、快与慢、虚与实之间游走，追求修身养性、强身健体的境界。自17世纪中叶发源于河南温县陈家沟以来，太极拳世代相传。在陈氏太极拳的基础上，逐渐衍生出多个以家族或名师命名的流派，涵盖八十套拳械套路和二十余种推手方法，文化内涵日益丰厚，展现出人类创造力与智慧的结晶。

2020年，太极拳被列入联合国教科文组织《人类非物质文化遗产代表作名录》，成为中国第41项入选项目。

这不仅是对太极拳的肯定，更是对中华文明深邃智慧的礼赞。

Tai Chi Chuan, or Taijiquan, is deeply rooted in traditional Chinese philosophy, embodying the principles of yin and yang and the harmony between heaven and humanity. Characterized by balance, fluidity, and circular motion, it emphasizes the unity of mind and breath. With the "Five Steps" and "Eight Techniques" at its core, its practice unfolds through routines, exercises, and the interactive art of tui shou (pushing hands). Practitioners, moving between stillness and motion, speed and slowness, emptiness and solidity, cultivate both inner tranquility and physical vitality. Since its emergence in Chenjiagou Village, Wen County, Henan, in the mid-17th century, Taijiquan has been passed down through generations. Originating from Chen-style Taijiquan, it later gave rise to numerous schools named after distinguished families and masters. Today, it encompasses more than eighty hand and weapon routines and over twenty forms of tui shou, its cultural meanings continuously enriched as a testament to human creativity and resilience. Widely practiced and revered in China and abroad, Taijiquan continues to nurture health, balance, and social harmony, offering communities a sense of identity and continuity. In 2020, it was inscribed on UNESCO's Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity as China's 41st entry—an honor not only to this martial art, but also to the timeless wisdom of Chinese civilization.

如果您有任何建议, 请随时告知我们的员工, 我们将在定期的可持续发展会议中讨论您的意见。

At MO Bar, we pledge to do our part in the sustainability movement echoing around the world.

Hotels have often been on the wrong side of attention when it comes to food wastage & sustainability issues; however, we are here to do what we can to reverse this opinion. From policies such as banning all disposable plastic collateral to upcycling food waste & by-products of cooking / cocktail making, there are no gestures, no matter how small, that will go unnoticed.

Should you have any ideas to contribute, please do not hesitate to tell any of our colleagues, your comments will be brought up in our regular sustainability meetings.

Below you can learn more about our on property sustainability initiatives.
