Mandarin Oriental, Boston Unveils Newly Designed Celadon Spa Suite in Collaboration with Pantone and Color Theory Boston

Hong Kong, 15 October 2025 - Mandarin Oriental, Boston is delighted to announce the unveiling of its newly reimagined Celadon Treatment Suite at The Spa, created in collaboration with renowned local design practice, Color Theory Boston. Drawing inspiration from the hotel's recently debuted colour in collaboration with Pantone, Mandarin Oriental Celadon Green, the refreshed Celadon Spa Suite - the most premium of the spa treatment rooms - has been transformed into an elevated sanctuary of calm, connection and rejuvenation.

The new design merges contemporary elegance with timeless tranquillity, carefully layering bespoke décor and artisan touches to create a soothing atmosphere enriched with elements of the serene celadon green hue. While preserving the suite's distinctive structure, Color Theory Boston has introduced enhancements that embrace the restorative qualities of the colour alongside natural textures.

Key celadon green design elements include:

- Luxurious new spa treatment bedding, designed to provide the utmost comfort during treatments.
- A curated selection of decorative textiles for the lounge area that introduce subtle textures and tones of celadon green.
- Thoughtfully chosen Asian-inspired wall décor and artwork above the sofa, bringing visual harmony and a sense of restorative balance.
- Elegant new wall sconces, providing soft ambient lighting to enhance relaxation.
- Tailored window treatments that diffuse natural light while adding softness and privacy, or when opened, reveal sunlit views across Boston's Back Bay.

Additional suite design enhancements include celadon tabletop décor including unique pottery, celadonite sculptures, florals and greenery, as well as new ceramic foot baths. Celadon decorative pieces are thoughtfully placed throughout the suite's primary treatment room, dry sauna and soaking tub area, with each reflecting the healing energy and restorative intention of the spa experience.

The decorative elements were sourced from journeys to local Boston textile designers and antique markets across New England, with rare and one-of-a-kind pieces selected for their expert craftsmanship, Asian design influences and distinctive celadon palette.

"Through this redesign, we sought to create a serene yet sophisticated environment that both celebrates Mandarin Oriental's legacy of wellness and embraces a modern expression of beauty," said Brad Dufton, Principal Designer at Color Theory Boston. "The Mandarin Oriental Celadon Green created with Pantone provided a fresh, grounding palette that became the foundation of our concept."

The new Celadon Spa Suite exemplifies Mandarin Oriental, Boston's dedication to curating extraordinary wellness experiences within its award-winning spa. Recently named Best Spa in Massachusetts by the World Spa Awards, The Spa now welcomes guests into this revitalised haven, where every detail has been considered to encourage relaxation, connection and renewal.

To pair the elevated design with experience, The Spa is also pleased to introduce Celadonite Stone Therapy, offered exclusively in the Celadon Spa Suite. This signature massage incorporates the use of celadonite, a green mineral stone revered for its calming energy and connection to nature. Associated with the heart chakra, celadonite supports both physical and spiritual healing. Following a light to medium pressure massage, celadonite palm stones are placed on the body to gently enhance the natural flow of energy, leaving guests deeply relaxed and balanced. Each guest also receives a celadonite palm stone to take home, extending the benefits of the treatment.

"Our vision for the Celadon Spa Suite was to create more than a treatment room - we wanted to offer our guests a sanctuary that nurtures both body and spirit," said Heather Hannig, Senior Director of Spa and Wellness at Mandarin Oriental, Boston. "The calming celadon palette, combined with the bespoke design details and our new Celadonite Stone Therapy, provides a truly transformative experience that embodies the heart of our wellness philosophy."
